Selection of Teas

While everyone knows where tea originated, no one knows when the now worldwide custom of tea infusion began. Its origin is concealed in the shimmering mists of exotic legends of which the following is but one.

One of the Emperors of China, who lived 5,000 years ago, was an excellent ruler and always delighted in setting his subjects good examples. One of these was that he always boiled his drinking water. One day a few leaves from the branches which were burning under the pot of boiling water fell into it, giving it a delightful scent and flavour and making the water a drink indeed fit for an emperor. The branches were those of the wild tea plant.
